Another possibility of restoring a full denture with four implants. The restoration is achieved with a “dolder bar” connection which is also spectable, enabling you to maintain effective oral hygiene.

Full denture supported by dolder bar insert.

What Will Happen?

Millions of dental implants are placed every year worldwide. They have become the most successful prosthetic device and are improving the lives of people every day. The procedure can be done in your own dentist’s office, or with one of their colleagues. A careful diet and avoidance of strenuous activity is required for only a few days, after which most patients can return to normal activities. Once the implants have bonded securely, the permanent crown or denture can be attached. After that, you can return to your normal tooth care such as brushing, flossing, and regular checkups. With correct care your implants will last for life.

Dental implants are often no more expensive than the alternative treatments. When you consider the time spent to adjust dentures or the need to replace crowns or bridges, the cost of dental implants may be more affordable. For patients suffering from missing teeth by bridges, you will find that implants give the best value and are the healthiest restoration procedures.
Dental implants are the preferred treatment to replace missing teeth and to support a full or partial denture. They are the most effective way to support a full set of dentures. Proper fitting dentures affect your ability to eat and speak and can eventually cause bone loss. Alternatively, dental implants replace only the missing tooth while preserving bone, giving longer, healthier life to the neighboring teeth.

Are you:
- Missing one or more teeth?
- Having trouble with dentures or partials?
- Unhappy with your bridge?

Dental implants will keep you smiling for life. Implants are replacement teeth that look and feel like real teeth for a flawless, natural smile.
